

TESTIMONIALS

" I first heard about AMJ from my guide while doing a research project during the third year of my medical school. After completion of the research, we decided to send it to AMJ considering its reputation of promoting young researchers. Soon, I heard from the journal of its decision to publish the research. It was so easy to submit the paper. All my queries during the process of submission were readily answered. Guidance from the staff was amazing. I want to thanks AMJ for encouraging young researchers like me to further pursue career in research. Getting my first research paper published in a journal of such repute, I am quite motivated to pursue more research projects related to public health. In spite of such an advancement in technological domain, world is still struggling from a number of communicable and non-communicable diseases and research is salient in arriving at solutions to such problems. AMJ is doing commendable job in fostering research aptitude in young medical professionals. I would like to thank AMJ for giving me this opportunity and would highly recommend other researchers to contribute their works to the journal."

AMJ should be the journal of choice for the authors who would like to get their good work published very fast. What I like specifically about the journal is that

- 1. Its prompt reply/acknowledgement to the authors at every step*
- 2. It is Pubmed Indexed and hence our work will reach a large number of researchers*
- 3. It has a good peer review system and the editors keep the authors informed about the status of the article at every stage of publication.*

4. The journal has a template into which the authors can incorporate their articles. This eases the work of the author
5. The editorial assistance, language editing service is excellent.
6. It publishes the articles free of any publication charges for authors of developing countries
7. The AMJ website is very user friendly

I conclude by wishing AMJ to prosper and become one of the most popular journals in the medical field.

As an invited reviewer for several of its manuscript submissions, I have closely followed the evolution of the journal since its inception, and have been delighted to see its growth in not only readership but quality of submissions. There are several reasons for the journal's rapid growth - I will briefly mention two.

One, the emphasis on a truly international focus in the range of health topics published in the journal. In this, Moyez has been highly proactive in encouraging submissions from health professionals in developing countries, a demographic that has historically been severely under-represented in scholarly journal publications. In making the journal open-access and waiving submission fees for contributors from developing countries, he has helped in redressing some of the imbalances in global research trends, one glaring aspect of which is that only 10% of health research is conducted in 90% of the world's population, with even a lower proportion of this research reported in scholarly journals.

Two, the journal has an enviably quick turnaround time from submission to review to publication of papers. For this, Moyez has adopted a number of strategies, including automating routine processes, using cutting-edge information technology software, and sourcing editorial and expert review assistance from around the world.

Given Moyez's intellect, determination, and his vision for primary health care excellence and equity, I am hopeful the Australasian Medical Journal will become a standard-bearer for balanced health reporting from around the world.

I wanted to let you know that it is not at all a problem in resubmitting the manuscript after doing even the slightest changes as the changes are for the betterment of the manuscript and I am more than happy to do the same for any number of times. It is a learning for me too. Also I would like to appreciate the quick response and the best feedback which I have always got from the editors of AMJ. Rather I would not shy away from accepting that of all the journals to which I have sent manuscripts for consideration for publication, I have received the most timely, prompt and best response from AMJ team. I would like to thank you all for your great efforts and let you know that they are appreciated a lot.

Hoping to send many more of my research work for consideration in your esteemed journal in the future.

I am incredibly impressed not only with the rapid publication of our article, but also with the quality of peer review, feedback and useful comments that helped to improve further the quality of our article. The online submission system is user-friendly and easy to use. Moreover, prompt responses and frequent updates about progress of the manuscript from the editorial staff were excellent. We targeted Australasian Medical Journal (AMJ) to publish our work for several reasons. The AMJ is a reputable journal in the medical field and covers a wide range of health related disciplines. AMJ is widely indexed in major databases including Scopus and PubMed. Hence, it will increase the visibility of our work. Also, as an open access medical journal, our work will be readily available and easily accessible by all researchers and readers around the world. All in all, my experience in publishing our work with AMJ was great. Hence, I would highly recommend other authors especially early career researchers to consider submitting their work to this prestigious journal.

I wish the AMJ more and more success and to be one of the leading medical journals in the very near future.

Thank you.
