After conducting an investigation, it was determined that a significant portion of the text of the paper had been plagiarised. The Australasian Medical Journal took immediate action, including:

- 1) Retracting the paper on the AMJ website.
- 2) Banning the authors from publishing in the AMJ in the future.

We regret that authors on our site have submitted plagiarised material, and do not condone any infringement of the standards of the journal.
