Call for papers

Health Innovation provides a distinctive opportunity to meet leading innovators, to catch up on the latest advancements, to present cutting-edge innovations and to engage researchers and decision makers in healthcare innovation. This special edition of the Australasian Medical Journal offers a platform for researchers, healthcare practitioners, and designers to showcase methods and processes that apply design thinking for effective healthcare services and products. You are invited to submit papers in the following topics:

- Innovative healthcare device design
- Patient-Centred Care
- Healthcare delivery
- Human-computer-interaction (HCI) in healthcare
- Role of non-medical healthcare professionals in the preventive medicine
- Communication design and healthcare
- Healthcare challenges
- Innovative Surgical Solutions
- Healthcare management
- Emotion in healthcare design

The AMJ is a fully peer reviewed journal, and features papers from a broad base of medical and paramedical researchers / experts. The scope includes research and audit through to discussion and opinion. We are especially keen to receive papers from new and emerging experts including students. Above all the AMJ adheres to the highest standards with particular emphasis on the novelty of ideas but also methodological and ethical rigor.
