

Editor's Note

AMJ 2017 10(12)

Editor's Note

Rick Steves

Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal
E-mail: editor@amj.net.au

Dear Readers,

Season's greetings!

We are pleased to bring you the final issue of 2017. Along with an editorial and few original papers, for this issue we decided to highlight some of the year's best papers.

The end of the year is a time of reflection, to look back upon the year's achievements and to think about the people who have helped make them possible. With that in mind, we would like to express our sincere thanks to the AMJ editorial team who evaluate papers, manage the publication process and respond to authors.

Thank you, too, to the editorial board members who have supported the journal since its inception and who continue to promote its growth. And to the reviewers, we appreciate the time you dedicate to ensuring papers meet our standards for scientific quality and integrity.

The AMJ was founded to help junior researchers and authors from developing countries learn about the rigour involved in preparing a manuscript for publication and in getting published. We remain committed to that objective. As well, we continue to receive more papers from leading researchers in Australia, Korea, China, the United States and other countries, which is a testament to our commitment to quality.

We look forward to continued success and growth next year. Consider signing up to be a reviewer or recommending reviewers to us. Submit a paper to the AMJ for publication and recommend the journal to others as a venue for publishing their academic research.

If you have any questions, email AMJ Editor. Wishing you all the best for 2018!

Sincerely,

Rick Steves

Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal
