

Editor's Note

AMJ 2024 17(05)

Editor's Note

Rick Steves

Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal
E-mail: medicalsci@medicineinsights.com

Sincerely,

Rick Steves

Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal

Dear Readers,

Season's greetings!

We are happy to present you with the fourth edition of 2024. In addition to some original papers and case studies, we chose to recognize the contributions made throughout the year for this Issue.

We want to acknowledge and thank you for your interest and support for the AMJ. We acknowledge the challenges caused by the pandemic, but rest assured we are committed to maintaining a high-quality review process at a steady rate. Taking that into consideration, we want to extend our heartfelt gratitude to the AMJ editorial team for their work in reviewing papers, overseeing the publication process, and communicating with authors.

Also, appreciation goes to the editorial board members who have backed the journal from the beginning and are still helping it flourish. To the reviewers, we thank you for the time you commit to ensuring papers meet our standards for scientific quality and integrity.

The AMJ was established with the aim of assisting young researchers and writers from developing nations in understanding the meticulous process of preparing a manuscript for publication and successfully achieving publication. We are still dedicated to that goal. Additionally, we are still obtaining numerous papers from top scholars in Australia, Saudi Arabia, The US, and other nations, demonstrating our dedication to excellence.

We are excited about the prospect of continued success and expansion. Think about registering as a reviewer or suggesting reviewers to us. Share your academic research by submitting a paper to the AMJ and suggest the journal to others for publication.

If you have any questions, email AMJ Editor. Wishing you all the best for 2024!