Dear Readers,

I am delighted to introduce to you this most recent edition of the year 2024. Australasian Medical Journal was founded in 2008 and has continuously published scholarly and systematic research findings twelve times a year. Each issue contained a variety of article types, such as original research, reviews, case reports, case studies, letters to the editors, commentaries, and opinions.

The AMJ was established to assist researchers from developing nations in sharing the results of their thorough investigations. We are dedicated to achieving that goal. Additionally, we are still receiving a growing number of publications from esteemed scholars in countries such as Australia, Saudi Arabia, China, the United States, Morocco, Nigeria, South Africa, Denmark, and others, demonstrating our dedication to excellence.

The focus of the Journal is mainly on highlighting medical science and healthcare innovations, with most of the content coming from the Australasian region. The published content is extensively indexed in various abstracting and indexing databases all over the world. The journal is currently in the process of putting together the Tenth installment of volume 16. This year the journal has achieved the publication of high-quality peer-reviewed articles covering a variety of topics such as Oesophageal Carcinoma, Cardio Vascular health, 3D Printing Software Technology, Shear wave elastography, Diabetes, Human Immunodeficiency Virus, Geriatric Medicine, Nutrition Studies, and Haemodynamic Studies. These subjects represent the new obstacles and current studies occurring globally in the field of medical science.

AMJ has upheld the editorial board of the publication, placing a significant focus on Australia. I would like to express my gratitude to all the writers who have chosen to showcase their valuable creations in this magazine. I want to thank all our editorial and professional peer reviewers for their help in ensuring the articles are published on time while considering the journal's current audience's needs. I would like to extend my best wishes to the journal management for the successful development and publication of the upcoming regular and special issues.
