

Editor's Note

AMJ 2024 17(06)

Editor's Note

Rick Steves

Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal
E-mail: medicalsci@medicineinsights.com

Sincerely,

Rick Steves
Managing Editor
Australasian Medical Journal

Dear Readers,

Season's greetings!

We are pleased to offer you the 2024 fourth edition. For this Issue, in addition to a few original papers and case studies, we decided to honour the contributions made all year long.

We would like to express our gratitude and acknowledge your interest in the AMJ. We are aware of the difficulties the pandemic has brought about, but don't worry—we're dedicated to continuing a rigorous review process at a consistent pace. In light of this, we would like to express our sincere gratitude to the AMJ editorial team for their efforts in coordinating with authors, supervising the publication process, and reviewing papers.

A special thanks goes out to the editorial board members who have supported the journal from the start and continue to contribute to its success. We appreciate the time reviewers devote to making sure papers adhere to our standards for integrity and scientific quality.

The AMJ was founded to help young authors and researchers from developing countries grasp the painstaking process of submitting a manuscript for publication and getting it published. We remain committed to that objective. We also continue to receive a large number of papers from eminent academics in the US, Australia, Saudi Arabia, and other countries, which attests to our commitment to quality.

The possibility of our ongoing success and growth excites us. Consider signing up to be a reviewer or recommending reviewers to us. Submit a paper to the AMJ to share your academic research, and recommend the journal to others for publication.

If you have any questions, email AMJ Editor. Wishing you all the best for 2024!